

Founded in 1989, Le Grand Chemin hosts teenagers struggling with addiction or cyberaddiction. Our centres are located in Montréal, Québec, and Saint-Célestin (Centre-du-Québec). The services provided to these teenagers, and their family are free.

In 2014, Le Grand Chemin was the first organization in Canada with accommodation centres to treat cyberaddiction. We are still the only organization in Québec to provide such services.

At Le Grand Chemin, we are known for our innovation. That is why we offer the teenagers an outdoor and adventure therapy, which is an intervention method to treat drug addiction that is unique in Québec. Our teenagers can also enrich their life and the lives of the elderly with the intergenerational project, which includes animal-assisted therapy, art therapy, and even more.

Each year, we help 12 to 17-year-old teenagers and their family to regain control over their life. Supporting Le Grand Chemin means preventing the risks associated with addictions, such as dropping out of school, mental illness, violence, and suicide.

OcSobre is the main fundraising campaign of Le Grand Chemin. All the donations made during the challenge will go to the three Le Grand Chemin centres.

To find out more about Le Grand Chemin and its services, visit the centres' website.